

Sr. Biostatistician – Phoenix, AZ

NPursuit, LLC has an immediate position for a leading Biostatistician on clinical studies in Phoenix, AZ. The incumbent will be responsible for maintaining the statistical integrity of clinical trials analyzed by our client and will actively participate in writing statistical sections of protocols, preparing statistical analysis plans, preparing data deliverables for clinical study reports, interpreting analysis results, writing statistical sections of clinical study reports, and participating in meetings with drug regulatory agencies as required.

Candidates applying to this position MUST HAVE WORKED ON CLINICAL TRIALS - PHASES I THROUGH IV.

Other Responsibilities Include:

- Provide statistical expertise for study design of clinical trial protocols
- Review CRF's to ensure consistency with protocol and adequacy in collecting data to meet objectives defined in the protocol and the statistical analysis plan
- Perform statistical QC of final clinical study reports
- Provide statistical support to answer questions from external clients (such as FDA, Investigators)
- Contribute to the development of standard operating procedures for clinical trials

Education and Equivalent Experience:

- Master's degree in biostatistics, statistics or other related, scientific field and ten years of relevant professional experience to include supervision and management experience; or an equivalent combination of relevant education and/or experience. A Ph.D. in biostatistics, statistics, or other related, scientific field is preferred. An MBA or equivalent management degree is also preferred.

Compensation

Salary Range: $90,000 - $110,000

How to Apply

If you are ready to soar to the next level, apply online now at www.npursuit.net and/or send your resume to recruiter@npursuit.net.

Relocation Assistance Provided